CONTROLLING DENGUE QUEENSLAND

WORK by Queensland researchers to control the spread of dengue fever has taken a leap forward. University of Queensland’s Professor Scott O’Neill is leading a research program (www.eliminatedengue.com) that is investigating infecting mosquitoes with a bacterium that shortens their lifespan and limits their ability to infect humans with the dengue virus.