And another thing...

WONDERS never cease to amaze in the world of science, with none other than billionaire Microsoft founder Bill Gates behind the search for a cure for the potentially deadly dengue fever and malaria. With regular outbreaks of dengue in the Far North and more predicted if climate change predictions become reality, scientists at the University of Queensland researching the cure could one day prove to be life savers.